

Next-session market intelligence, scored after the fact.

Ethereum / USD (ETH-USD)

Aggregate spot, CoinGecko cross-checked - crypto (24/7) - Saturday 13 June 2026, 02:30 UK - Risk window: Sat 02:30 -> Sun 14 Jun 02:30 UK (rolling 24h - trades through the weekend)

Wait Risk: Very High

Last price 1,666 (02:19 UK bar - live; CoinGecko cross-check 1,667.5)	Broad expected range (24h) 1,580 - 1,750 broad frame; centre ~1,665
Risk window Sat 02:30 -> Sun 02:30 UK - crypto trades straight through the weekend binary	Data quality 7/10 - dual-source price (Yahoo + CoinGecko); options data unavailable (audit in Pro)

Green dashed line = support. Red dashed line = resistance. Levels are research references, not trade instructions.

- Core thesis: Ethereum is the weak link of the peace-trade bounce - up 5.4% on the week versus Bitcoin's 7.3%, still down 26% on the month, and it closed Friday's session lower (1,674.9 -> 1,663.9) while everything else rallied. Both its short-term and long-term trends still point down.
- Main catalyst: the US-Iran signing window - possibly this weekend in Europe - falls inside this 24-hour window, and crypto is the only major market open to trade it. Iran says Hormuz stays closed, so the deal is not done.
- Main risk: sentiment prints back-to-back Extreme Fear (12 then 13) on thin Saturday books - washed-out tapes can drop further on a stalled deal, but the laggard also squeezes hardest if a signed deal finally pulls it up.

Scenarios (broad view)

Scenario	Trigger	Broad expected move	What to watch
Bullish	Deal signed inside the window	Squeeze toward 1,690 - 1,710; stretch into the 1,740s	Whether the first hour's gains hold
Base	No signature either way	Thin weekend drift 1,646 - 1,686	Behaviour around the 1,668 pivot magnet
Bearish	Talks stall / hostile headline	Slide toward 1,646 then the upper 1,620s	Stability of the 1,646 area on first test

Risk window timeline

Inside AssetFrame Pro

Pro report includes exact conditional levels with activation rules on both sides, the price ladder with distances, the Fear & Greed and funding read, risk math, the scored outcome ledger, and the full source audit.

General market research only. Not personal financial advice. Markets are uncertain. Verify data before acting.